INTRODUCTION

Generally, the Students study English “not because they are interested in the English Language or English culture as such, but because they need English for study or work purposes” (Robinson, 1991: 2). That is to say that English has Many kinds of a function where it can be used as several fields, such as: English as a basic lesson in elementary school, English as main lesson to produce the ability of speaking for junior and senior high school students, and also an English language will be needed by people who really need English for getting jobs, doing jobs, or as a tool for workers. The jobs that need English as a tool are flight attendant in airport, Engineers and Technician in a firm or it can also be used in medical fields. Despite of that English can be used for a specific purpose knowledge for those who needs English as their communication as language.

They need English as tool to explain their subject matter, according (Lamri, 2016: 3) “English Specific Purpose (ESP) is generally used to refer to the teaching of English for a clearly utilitarian purpose.” Mackay and Mountford (1978: 2). Based of the state English should be taught to achieve specific language skills using real situations, in a manner that allows them to use English in their future profession, or to comprehend English discourse related to their area of Specificity.

Regarding to this case the teacher of English should be able to teach English for the student in Nursing Academy program with the appropriate teaching method. Here the teachers must have good ability in implementing English Specific Purpose (ESP) because English has many functions in education or profession. English has many different purpose English Specific Purpose (ESP) specifically in Nursing Academy Program. The student need specific english in medical. Based on the background of the study above, the problem is stated: (1) What teaching method is used by the lecturer in teaching English of Nursing Academy program? (2) How are the students of Nursing Academy program responses toward English subject in their field?

The assumptions of this research are: The lecturer can implement method used to teach English for Specific purpose in Nursing Academy program and the students can respond positively in English teaching.

REVIEW OF LITERATURE

English for Specific Purpose

According Lamri (2016;5) ESP teaching approach is known to be learner-centred where learners need and goal are of supreme value, whereas General
English approach is language-centred, and focuses on learning language from a broad perception covering all the language skills and the cultural aspects of the English speaking community. Robinson (1980: 6) stated that “the general with which we are contrasting the specific is that of General education for life, culture and literature oriented language course in which the language it self is the subject matter and the purpose of the course”.

Characteristics of English Specific Purpose (ESP)

English Specific Purpose (ESP) is Dudley-Evans and St. Johns tried (1998) to apply a series of characteristics, some absolute and some variable, to outline the major features of English Specific Purpose (ESP).

Absolute Characteristics:

1. English Specific Purpose (ESP) is defined to meet specific needs of the learners;
2. English Specific Purpose (ESP) makes use of underlying methodology and activities of the discipline it serves;
3. English Specific Purpose (ESP) is centred on the language (grammar, lexis, register), skills, discourse and genre appropriate to these activities.

Variable Characteristics:

1. English Specific Purpose (ESP) may be related to or designed for specific disciplines;
2. English Specific Purpose (ESP) may use, in specific teaching situations, a different methodology from that of General English;
3. English Specific Purpose (ESP) is likely to be designed for adult learners, either at a tertiary level institution or in a professional work situation. It could, however, be for learners at secondary school level;
4. English Specific Purpose (ESP) is generally designed for intermediate or advanced students. Most English Specific Purpose (ESP) courses assume some basic knowledge of the language systems, but it can be used with beginners. (Dudley-Evans & St. John, 1998:4)

It is obvious that the absolute characteristics are specific to English Specific Purpose (ESP) because learner needs are of central importance when designing language activities. Concerning the variable features, English Specific Purpose (ESP) courses can be designed for a specific group using definite teaching methodology, nevertheless, all learners categories and disciplines can be concerned with English Specific Purpose (ESP).
For that reason English Specific Purpose (ESP) should be seen simply as an 'approach' to teaching, or what Dudley-Evans and St. John illustrate as an 'attitude of mind'. Similarly, Hutchinson and Waters (1987:19) stated that, "English Specific Purpose (ESP) should properly be seen not as any particular language product but as an approach to language teaching in which all decisions as to content and method are based on the learner's reason for learning".

Definition of Teaching Method

Teaching Method was the key of success of the teacher in teaching process. It was the way that the teacher should do in order to provide an understanding of the students about the lessons. Method was very influential in teaching that shows value can be good or bad the teaching process. According Diah Fatmawati (2015:1) Method of teaching was one of the components that should be used in teaching to achieve the teaching target and improve students’ abilities. Teaching Method principles connected with the progress of students ability the appropriate teaching method can gave influence the student to be more motivated in teaching process, can provide opportunities for expressing their ability, can allow students to learn solving problems, allow student to find discovery.

The methodologies of English Specific Purpose (ESP) teaching conform to the same model of the language teaching process as does any other form of language teaching. That is to say, the basic teaching activities are these; Shaping the input; Encouraging the learners intention to learn; Managing the learning strategies and Promoting practice and use. (Strevens, 1988: 44).

Teaching Spiral Method

Spiral teaching method is teaching method based on the premise that a student learns more about a subject each time the topic reviewed or encountered. According Supriyadi (2000: 06) “The spiral approach was an activity of presenting lesson material from easy materials an then more difficult and complicated, or the higher the concept the more widespread and deep”, Afterward (Fahimeh and Fatemeh, 2011, 1117) Spiral learning teaching method is one of interactive teaching method consist of 11 steps.

2. A teachers’ question.
3. A comprehensive response.

4. Grouping.

5. A teacher’s questions and responses.

7. Writing what have been learnt.

8. Comprehensive study.

9. Revise and review notes.

10. A teacher conclusion.

11. A feel of satisfaction

Definition of the respond

According (jalalludin rahmat, 2005) respond has meaning as the result or memory that can be lefted from subject supervision, phenomenon, or another information that got with concluding the information and construe messages. Respond is an organism activity or moving in some activity that made from one stimulant. Afterward steven M. Chaferespon (supporting Rahmat, 2005:218) devided respond into three part; Cognitive respond, Affective respond and Conative respond.

Afterwards, the writer used a diagram to show the result of the questionnaire. It would be easy for the reader to read the result showed that the students’ responses are positive. It could be seen from the diagram. The content showed that the student’s majority had a positive responses, it were showed that were not presentage lower in 50% and the presentage was on 50% up to 100 % in each item question.
Based on the findings during third meeting, teaching learning process in the first meeting and the second meeting had the similarities, the lecturer taught the students with repetition and drilling to make them understand the topic what they had learnt about the vocabulary, pronunciation, grammar that they had during teaching learning process, the lecturer always showed the general content of the book and explain the English material what they needed from the general to specific. The lecturer use draft or list to made the students know more about their material and remind the English subject was explained in the last meeting.
